

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides a proteome analysis method including grouping a proteome into membrane proteins and compounds capable of interacting with the membrane proteins, 5 while retaining their native structure and function, and analyzing both the membrane proteins and the compounds based on biological affinity, and devices therefor.